

Jack Benjamin Joseph

September 25, 1965 - May 15, 2020

Jack Benjamin Joseph was born on September 25, 1965 in San Antonio, Texas to loving parents Clariette and Marvin Joseph. He quietly passed away at the age of 54, at home in Austin, TX.

Jack and his parents moved to Austin when he was an infant. Throughout his life he experienced other parts of the world through travel, but he never wanted to live anywhere else. Growing up Jack loved spending time at Austin's Zilker Park, especially the Zilker Botanical Gardens. As an adult and adoring uncle he would enjoy time there with his niece and nephew during their visits.

Jack lived a less conventional life than many, and as a young adult worked as a convenience store clerk and a cab driver for a time—jobs that allowed him to indulge in his enjoyment of striking up conversations with strangers. Jack also loved tinkering with electronics, taking things apart to see how they worked, and spent his professional life working with computers. On April 18, 2000, while working for Dell Computer, Jack achieved a childhood goal when he was officially recognized as an inventor upon receiving a United States Patent for a multimedia monitor testing apparatus and method.

Above all else, Jack loved his family. He was a private person with a very big heart who always thought to call and stop in to visit with those he loved. Jack is survived by his parents, Marvin and Clariette Joseph, his sister Melisa Markman and her husband Craig, nephew Lyle, niece Savannah, and a large extended family.

The family will be holding a private memorial service. Details for a larger celebration of his life will be communicated when finalized. For those who are able and wish to do so, donations can be made in Jack's loving memory to The Central Texas Food Bank.

“ Jack and I were in the same Bar Mitzvah class at Agudas back before Austin really had a Jewish community. He was a kind soul with a fantastic sense of humor. He always had a smile, and was one of my closest friends for years. I know he will be missed by all who were fortunate enough to know him. Rest well my friend.

“ Jack made you feel like you had known him forever. I have never met someone who ever made me feel like I was his lifelong friend after talking with him for only an hour. And could he talk. He & I enjoyed sharing stories of old Austin. Reminiscing... You are missed Jack.

“ A younger version of Dad, Marvin! There's not much evident in that face, of our family, the Bendorf's but he had a good relationship with his Opa and Oma as well as, his very entertaining, Joseph grandmother Lil she was such spunky little woman. His middle name after his Great Grandfather which was a tribute as well! Our support and love to each of Jack's immediate family from one of many cousins. Sylvia “ Jack and my mother were close. I cannot count the times that Jack showed up with a sandwich or cookies. They would eat and talk for an hour or two. Mother loved that.

“ The time Jack brought my grieving brother a handle of whiskey instead of a casserole was vintage Jack and something we will always remember.
