“ My fondest memories of Brandon are watching him interact with his classmates in the GT Center at White Oaks Elementary School. Brandon was a quiet leader who always spoke out with care and concern for others. His helpful actions spoke loudly to his peers.

“ Brandon was one of the funniest, most fun people I ever got the chance to know. He was incredibly creative in this quiet, unassuming way, and deeply caring. Even doing "nothing" with him was often an adventure. We used to "make comics," which consisted of Brandon coming up with all of these fantastic stories, and me failing to finish the illustrations. Not once did he act frustrated - he just came up with a new idea. It's been so long since we talked, but I never thought it would be forever. I'll miss you so much, old friend.

“ When I think of Brandon, the word "authentic" comes immediately to mind. He lived with the utmost confidence in who he was - to the tremendous benefit of all with whom he interacted.

He brought equal measures of quick-witted humor, genuine compassion, and deep curiosity to all of his interactions - especially so those with our group of high school friends.

His camaraderie and loyalty were - and remain - essential to the long-standing friendships we've nurtured over decades. His was an exceptional example of true friendship - loyalty, devotion, trust, love - from which I benefitted and to which I continue to aspire now in his absence.

Brandon, your sudden and untimely passing has left a gap in our lives that can perhaps never fully be filled - but that gap exists because of the person and friend you were, the example you set, and the impact you've had. Rest well, my friend - I'll miss you.

“ Brandon was a loyal friend and a compassionate person who lived his values every day.

For the past few years I've been lucky enough to experience his intelligence, creativity, and patience biweekly as a truly unmatched game master for tabletop RPGs.

Our annual trip to the beach won't be the same without Brandon there cracking us up in his collection of Buc-Ees Novelty Tees.

The goons miss you dearly already.

“ Due to distance and the general nature of the coworker relationship, I wasn't close with Brandon, but I have worked with him for the past two and a half years. Hearing of his passing was a huge shock that didn't feel real at first.

Brandon was always upbeat and found amusement in the bizarre occurrences amidst the monotony of our day-to-day work. He was always willing to help wherever he could.

None of us ever got to meet Brandon in person because we all live in Portland, and we never managed to get the timing right for him to visit for one of our infrequent gatherings.

Being part of a very small company, his absence every morning is palpable. We are all so very sorry and send our condolences to his family and friends for his loss.
