

Chagai Dubrawsky

October 2, 1935 - July 18, 2024

With profound sadness, we mark the passing of Chagai Dubrawsky on July 18, 2024. Chagai was born on October 2, 1935 to Chaim and Malka Dubrawsky in Petach Tikvah, Israel. At the time, Israel was still British Mandate Palestine, so he was witness to the birth of a nation and the fulfillment of a longtime dream for the Jewish people.

Chagai served in the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) as a communications officer and, after his military service, studied medicine in Bologna, Italy for three years, returning to Israel to finish his medical training.

Becoming a doctor was a lifelong dream and he loved being a physician both in terms of solving medical puzzles and helping people. He was a quintessential "people person", a warm, funny, and genuine individual that folks naturally gravitated to.

In 1962, he married Nechama Dubrawsky (nee Bernstein) and they embarked on a new adventure together, raising three children and moving to the US.

Chagai was an adventurer, an amateur historian, a devoted husband and father, and a healer. He marched to the beat of his own drum, always guided by a sweet, generous, and loving heart.

He was preceded in death by his eldest son, Amos, and his wife and is survived by his children, Malka and Ido, his brother, Mordechai, and six grandchildren: Sarah, Rachel, Avi, Isaac, Hadas, and Rinat.
