

Charles "Chuck" Goldberg

December 30, 1940 - March 18, 2026

Charles "Chuck" Goldberg, 85, of Austin, Texas, passed away on March 18, 2026. Born on December 30, 1940, in the Bronx, New York, Chuck was a man of ambition and song who spent his life chasing dreams and finding harmony along the way.

Drawn by the lure of the West, Chuck left his roots in the Bronx for California to pursue a career in acting. While the silver screen was his initial goal, his deep love for film translated into a successful venture as a video store owner. Later in his career, he brought his sharp mind to the legal world, working with various law firms.

Chuck's greatest journey was the one he shared with his wife, Lois, the love of his life. Their path took them from the California sunshine to the mountains of Santa Fe, New Mexico, before they eventually sought a warmer destination for retirement. Following the suggestion of his brother, Shelly, they settled in Sun City, Texas, in the Austin area. There, Chuck fully embraced an active lifestyle, filling his days with the music he loved. A talented piano player with a quick wit and a love for jokes, he had a unique gift for bringing life and laughter to every room he entered.

Chuck is survived by his devoted wife, Lois Goldberg; his brother, Sheldon (Shelly) Goldberg and sister-in-law, Vicki Goldberg; his brother-in-law, Paul Pivawer, beloved husband of his late sister, Paulette; and his cherished nephew and nieces, Todd, Tania, Felicia, and Shari. He was preceded in death by his parents, Harry and Arlene Goldberg, and his sister, Paulette. He will be deeply missed by all who knew and loved him.

“ My heart aches and tears come. Such treasured memories of being friends and playmates with Chuck and Lois when my dear, departed husband Adam and I shared a kind of Camelot with them in Sun City Texas. I especially recall Adam and I singing and enacting "The Hippopotamus Song" for Chuck on one of his birthdays. We were rewarded with Chuck's radiant smile and hearty laughter. I truly wish I could be there to hug Lois, smile and cry together. I live in California now. If she can, I would dearly love to talk with her. All my deepest love, Allee Blatner.

“ Chuck playing the piano; something he truly loved. He taught himself to play by ear, sharing his gift and bringing beauty and joy to those around him. This video, taken about two years ago, is a moment we will always treasure.

“ Chuck was someone who brought light and laughter wherever he went. He had a natural way of making people smile, and his kindness and love were felt by everyone who knew him. The love he shared with his wife, Lois, was truly something special; deep, lasting, and the kind of love you don't often see, like something out of The Notebook.

He had a deep appreciation for music and found joy in playing the piano, filling the room with both sound and heart. Chuck lived a full and meaningful life, one rooted in love, connection, and joy.

I feel especially grateful that when I moved to Texas, I was given the gift of spending more time with him; time I'll always cherish, especially since we didn't get as much of it when I was growing up in a different state.

He will be deeply missed, but we find comfort in knowing he is at peace, and that his love, laughter, and spirit will remain with us always.
