“ I loved spending time with Irv every time I visited my parents in Houston. We spent many holidays together, had talks about Brooklyn NY (where I live) and took walks around the neighborhood. He will really be missed!

“ I would be remiss if I didn't correct my previous tribute to Irv. I said he came as a Seattle Seahawks player to one of our Halloween parties, but after watching his service, he was obviously an Oakland fan. My only excuse is that I don't know football. Forgive me Irv.

“ We loved being neighbors with Irv! He came to a few "Walstad Family Christmas's" and was one of the family. He enjoyed all the chaos! After we gave him Omaha Steaks as a gift one year, he finally told us he ate Kosher meals! We all got a laugh out of that for a long time. He and David would spend time talking and fixing things, especially the front gate and it usually ended with sharing a beer. We would occasionally pick him up for dinner at our neighborhood place and cherished those times. He was a joy and just the sweetest man to everyone. A friend said "say a little prayer of Thanksgiving that he passed through our lives." I love that and so true. We are fortunate that he was apart of our lives. May he rest in peace feeling all the love he gave and received! Much love, Robin and David Walstad

“ We love you Irv DeLeon. Remembering the good old days, walking down to Lake Washington and watching the unlimited hydroplane time trials together. Our families would visit each other on Jewish holidays. Having you join us on our daughter and son-in-law's wedding, just remembering the good times. Rest in peace and thank you for being my cousin. Love, Irv and Mimi

“ Irv was the best neighbor in the whole wide world. He was kind and humble and up for anything and everything. He joined us for every party we ever threw and especially was a good sport for dressing up for Halloween. One year he came as a Seattle Seahawk player and another year he was a bum complete with scraggly beard and a cardboard sign asking for money. He spent a couple of Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners with us and always brought us a pecan pie from his favorite Houston restaurant, The House of Pies. We walked the neighborhood with him most nights and everyone he met remembers him so fondly. I loved Irv and I am so very sad that he's gone. I am thankful that he passed through my life and I'm a better person for having known him. I pray that he now rests in peace. I'm gonna' miss you, Irv!

“ Irv was a very special neighbor in our St. George Place community in Houston. We would see him on walks and gatherings at Mathew's house. He was always so gracious and fun to talk with sharing fascinating stories and experiences.

He will be missed dearly. May his memory be a blessing always.
